Christmas Lights Will Go Up Soon

The Murray Electric System employees will put up the Christmas lights next week to help usher in the Yuletide season in Murray and Calloway County, according to L. D. Miller, executive-secretary of the Murray Chamber of Commerce.

Missile Czar Is Sworn In By Ike Today

WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower today swore in his new scientific chief of staff, Dr. James R. Killian Jr., and charged him with mobilizing the nation's brainpower in the missile race with Russia.

One of Killian's first jobs was to clarify his authority and responsibility and his role in military missile development. Former sources said his job has only been broadly defined.

The President has made it clear, however, that the 63-year-old physicist of Massachusetts Institute of Technology will have a big voice in guiding the administration's policy decisions.

From his "office of the special assistant for science and technology" in the executive office building next door to the White House, he will have ready access to the President, officials said. The President last week announced he was giving William H. Holladay, the Defense Department's missile director, all the authority of the secretary of defense in speeding up work on missiles. He has not yet clarified the relationship between the two offices.

Medaris also told a news conference Thursday night the Army has started plans for launching satellite anywhere between the end of this year and next March.

At the time he named Killian, the President displayed the nose cone of an Army Jupiter-C test missile which he said had re-entered the atmosphere without burning up, showing the United States had the solution.

Business Climate Discussed
By John Steger At Rotary

John E. Steger of the Associated Industries of Kentucky was the speaker yesterday at the Rotary Club meeting.

Steger was introduced by George E. Orerberg of the Labor Legislation committee of Rotary.

The annual Christmas parade, headed by Santa Claus and his reindeer, will be held on December 16. This date is later than that desired by local merchants and other sponsors, but it is the only date that the reindeer can be obtained.

Miller urged everyone to get ready for Christmas to make this one of the best Christmases ever held in the county.

The Christmas decorations have been added to each year as the need arose, so that decorations in good shape would be available.

Police Flush Out
Notorious Gangsters

APALACHIN, N. Y. — State police flushed out notorious gangster Vincent "Big Boy" Lombardi and 60 other "hoods and racketeers" from a mountain-top barbecue here Thursday, set a road-block against their escape and questioned them throughout the night.

State Police Sgt. Edgar Crosswell said they were "a good cross-section of the nation's hoodlums." They told police, who hauled them out of some 25 new black limousines, that they'd been calling on a sick friend — Joseph Barbera, head of an Endicott, N. Y., beverage distributing firm, who has been indicted for murder.

Federal tax agents also took part in the questioning. Police said none of the men was armed, all carried large amounts of cash, up to $10,000.

In addition to Genovese, boss of a dozen rackets and said to be a big figure in crime that gives orders to Frank Costello, the visiting hoodlums included Joseph Profaci of Brooklyn, reputed to be an "other statesman" of the Italian Mafia, or "Black Hand" Society, Vincent Rao of Yonkers, another long-reputed top gangster, and Louis Santos of Havana, Cuba, who told police he was manager of the Sands Hotel there and had just flown up for the day.

Most of the visitors, who numbered like a who's who of the Italian underworld, were from New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania. But there was a good sprinkling of top underworld figures from California, Ohio, Illinois, Texas, Massachusetts and Colorado as well.

Leopold To Get Parole Rehearing

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. — "Thrill killer" Nathan Leopold today was a step closer to possible freedom from his life sentence. The Illinois Pardon and Parole Board by a split vote, agreed Thursday afternoon, to grant a rehearing on Leopold's latest bid for a parole from Stateville Penitentiary.

The hearing date was set for February, 1958, in the penitentiary where Leopold has served 33 years for the kidnap-murder of 14-year old Bobby Franks in 1924. The slaying has been termed "The Crime of the Century."

This was the fifth plea for freedom by the ailing, 52-year-old convict who has vowed to continue his fight for release even "with my dying breath."

Parole Board Chairman Franklin U. Stransky cautioned that the board's action does not assure Leopold of parole. He pointed out that the vote to grant the rehearing by the five-man board was not unanimous.

Leopold and his partner, Richard Loeb, both sons of wealthy parents and brilliant students at the University of Chicago, kidnaped and killed the Franks boy for the thrill of trying to commit the perfect crime. Police soon tracked them down.

Leopold was sentenced to 99 years and Loeb to life.

Loeb was knifed to death in a prison brawl in 1936. Leopold, on the other hand, was a model prisoner.

Bodies Of 17 In Air Crash Are Recovered

By CHARLES BERNARD
United Press Staff Correspondent
HONOLULU — An air-sea armada that found the bodies of 17 persons killed in the crash of a Pan American Stratocruiser combed a small area of the Pacific today in the slender hope of finding survivors.

None of the searchers held out much hope of finding survivors, but it was a chance they could not afford to overlook. The search concentrated on an area 1,040 miles northeast of Hawaii.

A Navy plane from the carrier Philippine Sea spotted wreckage from the Stratocruiser, "Romance of the Skies" Thursday, six days after it disappeared while flying from San Francisco to Honolulu with 36 passengers and eight crewmen.

The wreckage was scattered over a 33 square mile area. The Philippine Sea was the first ship to reach the scene. Soon the destroyers Renshaw and Epperson and the Coast Guard cutter Bering Strait joined the carrier in the grim job of recovering the bodies.

The bodies were taken aboard the Philippine Sea and placed in an improvised morgue. The carrier was ordered to carry them immediately back to Long Beach, Calif.

The Chief of Naval Operations in Washington asked medical officers on the Philippine Sea to examine the bodies and report an opinion on the probable causes of death.

The first report from the carrier said the victims suffered "extensive injuries...with multiple fractures considered the cause of death."

Post Invites Legion And Auxiliary To Homecoming Dinner

Ellis B. Ordway, Post 111 and its Auxiliary of Marion, Kentucky has invited the Murray Legionnaires and their wives to attend the homecoming given in honor of Department Commanders William Allen, a member of that Post, according to information received by Post Commander Clifton Cochran.

The occasion will be held at the Kenlake Hotel, Kentucky Lake State Park on November 30, 1957. Dinner will be served at 5:30 p.m.

Ordway Post and its unit would like to have every member of the Legion and Auxiliary in Kentucky at this celebration, and a cordial invitation is extended to all.

Reservations may be made direct to Kenlake Hotel, Hardin, Ky.

Reservations will be accepted until Saturday, November 23.

Tight Money Is
Eased By Board

By EDWARD COWAN
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON — The government has eased up on the anti-inflation brakes in a move that indicates the boom is over.

The Federal Reserve Board in the first reversal of its cherished "tight-money" policy, put the discount rate Thursday from 3 1/2 to 3 per cent at four of its member banks. The remaining eight banks are expected to follow suit shortly.

The move means that businessmen would be "homeowners and car buyers, and others probably will be able to borrow more money from banks easier—and cheaper. It is an attempt by the government to get the people buying again."

Top economists said in New York that the action indicates that inflationary pressures in the economy have eased. They said it also indicates that the boom has ended and that business activity has begun to slow down.

Inflation Not Dampened
The government had pursued a tight-money policy as a means of holding down the inflationary spiral. But a spokesman said the reserve board's action recognizes that inflation now "has ceased to be the dominant factor in the economy."

The discount rate is the interest reserve banks charge member banks to borrow money. A reduction could stimulate credit — and thus the overall economy — if member banks pass on the lower cost of borrowing to their customers. It also encourages the banks to borrow more freely from the reserve and thus increases their ability to make more private loans.

The lower discount rate, announced Thursday, went into effect today at reserve banks in New York, Atlanta, St. Louis and Richmond, Va. The other banks are at Cleveland, Chicago, Minneapolis, Philadelphia, Kansas City, Boston, Dallas and San Francisco.

Congress Favorable
Congressional reaction to the move was immediate and favorable among both Republicans and Democrats.

Rep. Wright Patman (D-Tex.), chairman of the Senate-Economy Committee, said the reduced rate showed that the reserve chairman William McChesney Martin "is getting on the top of the capital and shouting to the banks throughout the country to ease up and lower their interest rates."

The lower discount was announced after a high-level meeting Tuesday at the White House between President Eisenhower and Reserve Chairman Martin, Treasury Secretary Robert B. Anderson, Commerce Secretary Sinclair Weeks and several of his top economic experts.

Rev. Hill In Mission Talks
At Church

Thomas Hill will conduct a "School of Missions" at the First Christian church on November 17, 18, and 19. He will also speak at both services on Sunday.

A special meeting for men only will be held on Monday at 6:30 p.m. On Tuesday, he will address a general meeting of the Christian Women's fellowship at 6:30. On Tuesday morning he will speak before the Murray High School assembly.

Mr. Hill was a missionary to India for 38 years and is now spending throughout the United States in behalf of Christian missions.

In preparation for his missionary service, Mr. Hill studied at Kansas State College at Manhattan, and the University of Kansas at Lawrence, receiving his B.S. degree and his A.B. degree. He received his masters degree from Butler University, Indianapolis.

Juvenile Jury Hears Cases Here Today

"Trial by Jury" is no empty phrase to teen-agers in Calloway County. That "doing is better than hearing" was proved today when Juvenile Court met this morning and cases against teen-agers were heard with a jury of their peers in the jury box.

Two years ago this unique system of dealing with teen-age offenders was first tried in Murray. Juvenile Court is conducted in much the same manner as is the regular court, explained County Judge Waylon Rayburn to the 25 students chosen from the county high schools to act as jury in these cases.

It is felt that this method of dealing with certain of the juvenile offenders will prove more effective than the usual procedure, said Judge Rayburn. Not only does this give the young people a better idea as to how the courts handle cases of dealing with teen-age offenders, but, more important, it is hoped that action of this sort will help deter the commission of offenses by teen-agers, Rayburn said.

The juries were selected and charged in just the same way they are in the regular sessions of court. They hear the cases that are brought before the court and return their verdict after deliberation.

In passing sentence Judge Rayburn may use the verdict and recommending punishment returned by the juvenile jury as a guide, or he may choose to disregard it altogether. However, Judge Rayburn said that in the past the juries had acted in much the same manner as he himself would have, and that he was able to use most of their recommendations with only slight changes.

move was immediate and favorable among both Republicans and Democrats.

Rep. Wright Patman (D-Tex.), chairman of the Senate-Economy Committee, said the reduced rate showed that the reserve chairman William McChesney Martin "is getting on the top of the capital and shouting to the banks throughout the country to ease up and lower their interest rates."

The lower discount was announced after a high-level meeting Tuesday at the White House between President Eisenhower and Reserve Chairman Martin, Treasury Secretary Robert B. Anderson, Commerce Secretary Sinclair Weeks and several of his top economic experts.

Fred Herndon, Jr.
Back From Center

Fred Herndon, Jr., truck service specialist at Truck Equipment Sales International truck dealer for the Murray area, has returned from the International Harvester motor truck technical training center at Atlanta, where he took the full course offered in proper service methods for the newest truck designs.

Bob Bazzell, Service Manager, described the center as the best equipped service training facility in the truck industry. The course covers advanced service techniques for International truck engines, LPG fuel systems, transmissions, rear axles, clutches, and other components.

The training center, first of its kind to be established by the company, serves over 900 dealers for International trucks in the Southern states.

Misery to Share Company When
Murray State Meets Evansville

Murray State's Thoroughbreds, defeated in their last three games, take on another squad having a dismal season when they play Evansville college here Saturday.

The teams have similar seasonal records with the Racers holding a 2-5 mark compared to a 1-5 mark for the Purple Aces. However, both teams have shown some form of strength in past games, regardless of the record.

The Racers came through with their best effort of the year in losing to OVC powerhouse Middle Tennessee (22-0) last Saturday. The Aces also displayed good form in losing to St. Joseph's-Pumas, titleholders in the tough ICC.

Evansville is expected to hit Coach Jim Sullivan's squad with an aerial barrage, the likes of which the Racers haven't seen in past games. The Aces' quarterback, Talmadge Vick, tenth in the nation among small colleges, had completed 59 of 102 passes for 783 yards and five touchdowns before the St. Joe speedy halfbacks in fourth-year men Richie and Corky Thompson, who have plagued Murray's defenses in the past. These two give the Aces a good all-round offense.

Murray's offensive attack, which showed improvement in the Middle Tennessee contest, hasn't been ignored by Sullivan this week. As he puts it, "We are trying to fan the spark of offense that was displayed in the Middle Tennessee game into a flame."

With Quarterback Jerry Stripling and Fullback Jack Morris equaling their last Saturday's performances, plus the same fierce line play, the Racers could be hard to stop.

First-string guard Ab Davis, who missed the Middle contest, may be ready for limited action in the Evansville fracas, while Halfback Don Toot, a second-stringer, may miss his second straight game because of a slight wrist fracture.

Khrushchev Says Russia Superior In Rocket Race

By HENRY SHAPIRO
United Press Staff Correspondent

MOSCOW — Nikita Khrushchev today claimed that the Soviet Union has won absolute superiority in the rocket race, but he said the Soviet Union will never start a war.

In the event of another war, he said it would be "fought on the American continent," but "we too would suffer immensely."

In an exclusive two and one half hour interview with the United Press, the Soviet premier expounded freely on world problems as he saw them and made these major points:

—Prospects for preserving world peace "aren't bad," but the possibility cannot be excluded that World War III might be started by "some lunatics."

—There probably won't be any summit meeting with the West in the nearest future, though he still wants one as "the only way out" of the East-West impasse.

Settle Major Problems
—It would be possible for Russia and the United States alone to settle major problems in bi-lateral negotiations. "If we two agree to relax international tensions, other countries won't be offended."

—Said the Soviet Union alone possesses an intercontinental ballistic missile.

—Said the first rocket launched by the Soviet Union, "the bullethead," and Russia could now use rockets to "dispose of bases in Europe, Asia and Africa."

—The emergence of another Stalin and the development of a new cult of personality in the Soviet Union is, now impossible. Former Soviet Defense Chief Marshal Georgi Zhukov was removed by the Presidium and the Central Committee, not by the generals. He was "very rude and dictatorial" but no Stalin "or even half a Stalin."

Khrushchev, in the first interview he has ever given to a resident Moscow correspondent, claimed flatly that the Soviet Union now enjoys "absolute rocket superiority."

He said that it attacked the bases of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and deliver a mortal blow on continental United States.

However, he said "the prospects for peace aren't bright" to a recent change in the balance of strength in favor of the Communist and neutral countries and the rising clamor for peace among the Europeans as well as the American people who do not want war.

But he said the possibility of war could not be excluded. He said it might be started by some "lunatics who should be put into straitjackets."

In such a case, he said it would be the "final agony imposed by capitalism and humanity" and would mark the end of capitalism and universal triumph of Communism.

"But we too would suffer immensely," he said.

REPUBLICAN POWER PLAYS—These four faces symbolize power plays plus a score in Republican ranks, especially in view of Democratic Gov. Robert B. Meyner's big-margin re-election in New Jersey. Senator Smith is being forced to step aside so Bernard Shanley, recently one of President Eisenhower's aides, can run for U. S. senator. Smith is 77, but had intended making the race. California's Gov. Knight has been powered out of running for re-election so Senator Knowland can make the try. Knight is scheduled for the Senate race, which he didn't want. That came after a talk with President Eisenhower. (International)

Little Man On Market Is Maligned

By ELMER C. WALZER

United Press Financial Editor,
NEW YORK

The little man in Wall Street is wooed and won over to buying stocks when things look good and then jumped on, criticized, and generally maligned when he becomes frightened enough to sell.

The experts at times like these warn against following the crowd. The firm of Arthur Wiesen-berger devotes the leading section of its current investment report to just that advice.

It observes that the mentality of the crowd is that of its lowest and notes that "when a crowd forms and functions, its motives and actions are almost solely a reflection of emotional rather than intellectual stimuli."

Functioning of the crowd, the firm points out, is why stock prices at bull market peaks as well as bear market bottoms
"make no sense." This is why markets "overshoot the marks"— sell "too high" at tops and "too low" at bottoms.

Crowds are stimulated to action three times and usually no more, the firm notes. This, it adds, finds expression in the stock market in triple tops, triple bottoms, three steps up, three steps down. It is explained by the fact that after the third advance few buyers are left and after the third decline, few sellers remain.

Hence three tops in the bull market around 524 — April 1956, August 1956 and July 1957.
Selling that has followed the high set on July 12 is seen as the first step, "likely to be followed by two more."

The Wiesenberger firm believes the next one might break 400 and the third one somewhat deeper, but only events, the turn of the news and its effect upon the crowd of investors will determine how low this market may go. It certainly will not be the result of a group sitting down with pencils and figuring out where stocks should sell on the basis of earnings and dividends.

Another reflection of crowd feelings and emotion is cited as the typical retraction by the market of simple fractions of previous moves. It fell one-fourth of the 432-point rise from the low of 92 in April 1942 to the peak of 524 and then retraced one-fourth of the 108 point decline by falling 27 points
— from 416 to 443.

"The firm warns against buying on the market's first go-down, and adds that when and as the market has its next sell-off, especially if it breaks 400, there 'probably will be a number of interesting and attractive purchases.'"

"Sounds simple. It works out like this says the Wiesenberger firm: 'Successful investing results from a proper admixture of courage and caution—the courage to act at the right time and the caution to appreciate the risks in any situation.'"

It would seem that a study of crowd psychology rather than

Hound Dog Is Favorite Song Now

By J. F. BENNETT

GA. — J. F. Bennett, 60, has a new favorite song
today. It's "Hound Dog."

Here's why:
Bennett was walking with his small dog near his home in the northwest Georgia mountains. The dog took out after a rabbit and then "started hollering," Bennett said.

When he caught up with the dog, a snarling wildcat "landed on my chest, a howling and a-screaming and a-crawling at my throat," Bennett said.

"Then this other dog I never saw before started trying to pull the wildcat off," Bennett said, and the howling and screaming wildcat stopped attacking him and went for the hound dog.

He said the cat killed the strange dog, "then came back for me."

Bennett said he picked up a pine limb and swung it repeatedly at the maddened wildcat.

"The cat jumped me several times before I beat it to death," Bennett said. He said he was scratched on the face, stomach and neck, and that he credited the hound he had never seen before with saving him "from being torn to pieces."

Loss To Middle Tennessee Was Racer's Best Game

Murray State's 22-0 loss to OVC powerhouse Middle Tennessee State last Saturday was the Racers' best game of the season, according to Head Coach Jim Cullivan. "It was our best game. It would have beaten Kansas State, Tennessee Tech and Eastern, and would have pushed Louisville," said Cullivan.

All four of those teams have defeated the Racers this season, with the Middle Tennessee game Saturday being the number five against two wins. Evansville College and Western, both traditional enemies, remain on Murray's schedule.

Saturday's game ended as most persons had predicted, including Dr. Littenhouse, who favored the Blue Raiders by 22 points. However, the game wasn't really clinched until the final quarter. A bad lateral and a blocked punt up the Racers' first TD early in the first period. They held a 7-0 lead at halftime, but the Racers had dominated most of the play. A hard-charging line and a clicking backfield unit gave Murray the rushing edge at halftime.

The Blue Raiders marched to a second touchdown in the third quarter and scored their final six-point plus safety in the final quarter.

Murray threatened more than once during the game, but a clipping penalty stopped an apparent scoring drive near the ten while a tougher Middle Tennessee defense halted all other drives.

Racer Quarterback Jere Stripling had Fullback Jack Morris played their best games of the season. Stripling, all-OVC quarterback last season at a junior, completed 7 of 10 passes for 93 yards and Morris banked away at the Middle defense for 73 in 13 tries.

Linemen displaying the most form and drive were ends Charles Bush, Don Sparks and Bud Vest; tackles Bill Hina and J. D. Burdin, and two freshman guards, Charles "Punch" Hina and Jimmy Chapman. Marvin Kaiser and Gordon Perry also have creditable performances as reserve ends.

Saturday's loss left the Racers with a 1-3 conference mark. Western, the bitter rival on the schedule, is the only OVC squad left. Evansville College, also an arch rival, will be in town Saturday for an afternoon fracas.

Scouting reports have revealed the Aces to have a wide open offense which will pull most of the offensive "usuals" and "unusuals." They boast the tenth best passer among small college teams in Talmadge Vick and the number nine pass receiver in Larry Gates.

Davey Moore Challenges Kid Bassey

WASHINGTON — Little Davey Moore, encouraged by his fifth straight victory of the year, hurled a title challenge at featherweight champion Hogan (Kid) Bassey today, and backed it with a $25,000 guarantee.

Contender Moore of Springfield, Ohio, who won a nearly perfect decision over Jose Cotoero of Los Angeles at the New Capitol Arena, said he would fight Nigerian Bassey for the 126-pound crown in London or "any place."

Sticky Moore, with his aggressive hooking attack, was so superior to the lanky California contender in their TV 10-rounder that he was given 299 points out of a possible 300 by the three ring officials.

"I felt shifter and stronger than ever," said 24-year old Davey. "And I'm confident I can beat Bassey for the title."

Davey, who was ranked sixth by the Ring Magazine and fourth by the National Boxing Assn., weighed 128 pounds. Cotoero, who was rated fifth by the Ring and seventh by the NBA, scaled 127.

Many of the 1,000 spectators were surprised that Cotoero lasted the 10 rounds because he was hit with so many solid punches. He was groggy at the end of the fifth round but there were no knockdowns.

Moore suffered a cut on his right brow in the second round as he hammered out his 27th victory in 32 fights. It was Cotoero's 13th defeat in 51.

MOSCOW DEFENDS TITLE
NEW YORK — Willie Mosconi will defend his world pocket billiard championship against Orazio Lauri of Brooklyn beginning next Monday when they clash in 125-point clock matches and evenings through Wednesday night.

NEW YORK — C and C Construction Co., of Ft. Wayne, Ind., will begin work Sunday adding 10,000 seats to the University of Wisconsin football stadium. The capacity of the stadium will be 63,000 when work is completed on Aug. 1, 1958.

Fullmer Is Favored Over Neal Rivers

NEW YORK — Ex-champion Gene Fullmer is favored at 17-5 to beat Neal Rivers tonight and keep his standing as alternate challenger for the middleweight crown.

The 10-rounder at Madison Square Garden between Fullmer of West Jordan, Utah, and Rivers, the California state champion, will be televised and broadcast nationally by NBC at 10 p.m. (e.s.t.).

Despite the betting odds, mauler Gene will be taking a genuine gamble in this "all-to-lose" fight with Los Angeles' Neal, an unrated contender but a dangerous sharp-shooter.

Fullmer will be risking his chance for a title shot in case Sugar Ray Robinson retires and forgoes an attempt to recapture the 160-pound crown from Carmen Basilio.

Neal's 37-5-2 record includes 21 knockouts. He was stopped twice, by Sal Flores (5) and Milo Savage (1) — both in 1954.

Fullmer's 42-4-0 career includes 10 knockouts. He failed to last the distance only against Robinson.

Martinez Favored
HOLLYWOOD, Calif. — Vince Martinez, 27-year old welterweight contender from Paterson, N.J., has been established as a 14-5 favorite over Ramon Tiscareno of Juarez, Mexico, in their 10-round bout Saturday night in Hollywood Legion Stadium.

Tests For Alex
NEW YORK — Alex Webster, hard-running New York Giant halfback who ranks seven in ground gaining in the National Football League with 378 yards on 99 tries, has entered St. Elizabeth's Hospital for tests and X-rays of an infected ear.

TO EXPAND STADIUM
MADISON, Wis. — The C and C Construction Co., of Ft. Wayne, Ind., will begin work Sunday adding 10,000 seats to the University of Wisconsin football stadium. The capacity of the stadium will be 63,000 when work is completed on Aug. 1, 1958.

IOWA-OHIO STATE IS BIG GAME OF WEEK

Win For Ohio Would Cinch Title And Trip To Rose Bowl

By HARRY WISMER
Written for the United Press

NEW YORK — From the standpoint of competition and national importance, the game of the week is the Big Ten affair at Columbus between Iowa and Ohio State.

A win for Woody Hayes will give the Ohio Buckeyes the Big Ten title and a trip to the Rose Bowl. A victory for the Hawkeyes will give them the title, and open up the Western Conference Rose Bowl picture, giving Michigan State an outside chance for Pasadena.

We like Iowa because the Hawks are more versatile and have better balance. They'll win, 20-13.

Elsewhere in the nation.

Eastern Picks
In the East, Dartmouth over Cornell 21-13; Penn State over Holy Cross 21-18; Navy will beat George Washington 28-7; Yale will surprise Princeton 19-13; Penn 14-13 over Columbia, and Army will vanquish Tulane 27-6. Syracuse will beat Colgate 20-12.

Irish Up For Game
Notre Dame will try and stop Oklahoma at Norman, but the Sooners are overwhelming favorites. That is our Mutual football broadcast for the week with your observer.

There are only five games in the National pro league this weekend. Pittsburgh and the Chicago Cardinals are idle. The Western Division, tightening up each week, could become even closer if the Chicago Bears and the Detroit Lions win.

Our selections: The Bears over Baltimore Colts at Wrigley Field 27-24; Detroit Lions to take San Francisco at Detroit 30-27; Los Angeles to win from Green Bay at Milwaukee 30-21; the Cleveland Browns will stay on top beating the Redskins at Washington 21-14; the New York Giants will shut-out the Philadelphia Eagles at New York 28-0.

How many Hogs in a Ton of Grain?

On a straight corn ration, you can't expect to get much more than 1 1/2 hogs out of a ton of grain. Corn alone simply does not have the balanced protein, vitamins and minerals needed for fast, economical gains. But when you supplement with Southern States 40% Porkmaker, you can easily get three hogs per ton of grain... and you save about two months growing time!

Here's how the two feeding programs compare:

To Raise a	Straight Grain Ration	Balanced Porkmaker and Corn Ration
200-lb. Hog	24-bushels corn	11-bushels corn plus 100-lbs. Porkmaker

Try 40% Porkmaker with your corn for faster gains and greater hog profits!

Ramsey Has Come Into His Own

By UNITED PRESS
Ex-Kentucky ace Frank Ramsey has come into his own during Bob Cousy's absence to give the Boston Celtics still another super star.

And the net result is that the Celtics have stretched their unbeaten skein to eight games today — seven fewer than the all-time National Basketball Association record for the start of a season.

The 6-foot, 4-inch guard supplied the heroics in true Cousy style Friday night when the Celtics bested the Cincinnati Royals, 122-110, in overtime at Cincinnati. He tied the score at 104-104 with two free throws after the final buzzer and then scored two field goals in the first 30 seconds of the overtime to spark an 18-6 "clutch drive" that won the game for Boston.

The victory gave the unbeaten Celtics a three-game first place lead in the Eastern Division over the Philadelphia Warriors, who beat the Minneapolis Lakers, 119-108. The New York Knickerbockers downed the Syracuse Nationals, 104-99, in the other game and now trail the runaway Celtics by three and a half games.

HOLLYWOOD'S NEWEST ROMANTIC DUO, Scott Brady and Rita, bring excitement and primitive love to the screen in MOHAWK which will open Sunday at the Murray Drive-In Theatre. The Widevision drama also stars Neville Brand and is filmed in glorious color.

World Of Toys
Woman's World

By GAY PAULEY

United Press Women's Editor
NEW YORK (AP) — Playthings for small fry represent a realistic payoff for many women.

For it turns out that the world of toys increasingly is woman's world... women have had a hand in the design, manufacture, or the sale of a goodly chunk of the 1½ billion dollars worth of toys which will be sold this year. The Toy Manufacturers of the U.S.A. said the figure will set a record.

It listed several dozen women in top jobs in the field, as designers, president or other executive in some of the largest companies.

These included Mrs. B. Alexander, boss of a New York firm which specializes in dolls fit for a "10 best dressed" list; Mrs. Hazelle H. Rollins, partner with her husband in a Kansas City company making marionettes; Mrs. Jennie Graves, president of a Medford, Mass. firm specializing in dolls and costumes; Mrs. W. W. Rushton, president of an Atlanta company which turns out 10,000 stuffed animals a day; and Mary B. vice-president and designer for Ideal Toy, world's largest doll manufacturer.

Shine in inventions
"But it is in the field of invention where the ladies are beginning to shine," said Alice Nichols, Miss Nichols and her partner, Felicia Parker, started out three years ago selling a new word game called "Bali" and have expanded into a new role — acting as agents for toy and game inventors generally.

"About a third of the ideas which come in here are from women," said Miss Nichols. "One of the things most toy inventors — man or woman — have in common is parenthood. A mother trying to think of a new way to keep junior from underfoot produces a new idea in toys."

Many Nichols - Parker clients wish merely to sell their idea to an established manufacturer and collect royalties. Others go into business for themselves.

REDS CLAIM SUPERIORITY
TOKYO (AP) — Radio Peiping, official voice of Communist China, said today the "so-called superiority" of the United States over Russia is "definitely gone forever."

The "only way open" to the United States is one of "peaceful co-existence with the Socialist countries and competition under conditions of peace," a broadcast said.

Instead of soberly facing reality and revamping U.S. policy, the U.S. president continues to brag about U.S. military strength, it said.

DESPERATE MAN

© 1956, 1957 Wayne D. Overholser. From the novel published by The Macmillan Co. Distributed by King Features Syndicate.

CHAPTER 23

BLUE RODE up the slope toward the cabin, his eyes on the ruins in his left hand; his right arm hung at his side. I stood in the doorway, thinking that I could shoot him out of his saddle without running any chance of getting shot. But I didn't try. I guess he knew I wouldn't.

As Blue walked toward me, I backed up. By the time he reached the doorway, I was standing against the opposite wall of the cabin. He stopped, a little hunched over, his left hand close to the butt of his gun.

"I'm going to kill you, Murdock," Blue said. "I guess you know that."

I hoped he would make his play then, because the interior of the cabin was dark compared to the bright sunlight he had been used to, and he might have trouble seeing me. I wanted to start the ball myself, but I had never drawn a gun against a man when I was facing him, and I couldn't quite bring myself to do it now.

Blue seemed to be in no hurry. He stood motionless, staring at me, maybe waiting for his eyes to become accustomed to the thin light. Or perhaps this was his way, enjoying the cat-and-mouse game he had played with my father last fall in the lobby of the hotel in Buhl.

"I had quite a ride," he said finally. "I was in town, or I'd have been here sooner. Price rode in to get me." He lifted his right arm a few inches and dropped it back to his side. "You didn't think I'd forget you did this to me, did you?"

I didn't answer. Right from the moment I'd shot him in Buhl, I'd known I'd have to face him again. Suddenly frantic desire to live clashed through my consciousness and I thought of Kitty and what it would mean to her if I died this way.

"You're scared, sonny," Blue said. "You're scared right down to your guts. You can't move and you can't talk."

I had been scared; then suddenly I wasn't. I wouldn't beg and I wouldn't crawl. I had forgotten for a moment, but now I remembered that he had sent the saddle tramp Jones to Dillon's Park.

"I can talk," I said. "You're no gun fighter. You're a bushwacker. You murdered my father."

He was surprised at that. He said, "I didn't kill Joe."

"Then who did?"

"Barney Lux," Blue said, and grinned. "And he killed Elder Smith too. Surprised?"

I was surprised, all right, but I tried not to show it.

"Five hundred dollars for each job," Blue said, "but that's his gun fight. I work for Runyan. Barney worked for Toll."

He couldn't stand it any longer. I suppose he'd been using up time so that he would work on me and he thought he had waited long enough. He made his play with his left hand and I made mine.

I never made a smoother, faster draw, maybe because I knew I had to, and of course I had the advantage of the short barrel. I was way ahead of Blue. He didn't get off a shot. My first bullet caught him in the left shoulder and knocked him back out of the doorway as cleanly as if he had been jerked off his feet by an invisible wire. I fired again as he fell, the bullet striking through his chest.

I ran out of the cabin and stood over him. His eyes were open, and blood was bubbling out of his mouth and running down his chin. "I practiced but not enough," he said.

He spoke slowly, whispering the words, for that was all the strength he had. Then he was dead, his mouth dropping open, his hands going slack in the dust at his sides. I leaned against the cabin wall for a time, my knees weak, blood pounding through my body. All the practicing he'd done with his left hand had not been enough. Maybe he'd thought he was ready. Or maybe he knew he'd fail, but still he'd had to try when Dick Price told him where I was.

World Of Toys Woman's World

By GAY PAULEY

United Press Women's Editor
NEW YORK (AP) — Playthings for small fry represent a realistic payoff for many women.

For it turns out that the world of toys increasingly is woman's world...women have had a hand in the design, manufacture, or the sale of a goodly chunk of the 1 1/2 billion dollars worth of toys which will be sold this year. The Toy Manufacturers of the U.S.A. said the figure will set a record.

It listed several dozen women in top jobs in the field — as designers, president or other executive in some of the largest companies.

These included Mrs. B. Alexander, boss of a New York firm which specializes in dolls fit for a "10 best dressed" list; Mrs. Hazelle H. Rollins, partner with her husband in a Kansas City company making marionettes; Mrs. Jennie Graves, president of a Medford, Mass. firm specializing in dolls and costumes; Mrs. W. W. Rushton, president of an Atlanta company which turns out 10,000 stuffed animals a day; and Mary B. vice-president and designer for Ideal Toy, world's largest doll manufacturer.

Shine in inventions
"But it is in the field of invention where the ladies are beginning to shine," said Alice Nichols. Miss Nichols and her partner, Felicia Parker, started out three years ago selling a new word game called "Bali" and have expanded into a new role — acting as agents for toy and game inventors generally.

"About a third of the ideas which come in here are from women," said Miss Nichols. "One of the things most toy inventors — man or woman — have in common is parenthood. A mother trying to think of a new way to keep junior from underfoot produces a new idea in toys."

Many Nichols — Parker clients wish merely to sell their idea to an established manufacturer and collect royalties. Others go into business for themselves.

"Pup-Kits"
Mrs. Silot Atkinson, a Palm Beach, Fla. nursery school teacher collects on a make-believe loaf of bread, designed for preschool children to "slice." Felt puppets made for her own three children started Mrs. Howard Gasaway, of Columbus,

REDS CLAIM SUPERIORITY
TOKYO (AP) — Radio Peiping, official voice of Communist China, said today the "so-called superiority" of the United States over Russia is "definitely gone forever." The "only way open" to the United States is one of "peaceful co-existence with the Socialist countries and competition under conditions of peace," a broadcast said. "However, instead of soberly facing reality and revamping U.S. policy, the U.S. president continues to brag about U.S. military strength," it said.

CARD OF THANKS
We have the family of Mrs. June Treas wish to express our sincere thanks and appreciation for the help and kindness rendered us through the short illness of our wife and mother who passed away November 8, 1957. Especially do we thank Dr. Hays and the wonderful nurses at the hospital who did their best to make her comfortable. To the pastor, Walter Hill, for his kind words of comfort and Vestor Orr and his wife for their good singing, the pallbearers, the beautiful floral offerings. Also do we thank the J. H. Churchill Funeral Home for their splendid service and the many friends for the good food they served. May God's richest blessings rest upon each and everyone of you. Mr. June Treas & Children The Miller Children

CARD OF THANKS
My family and I wish to express our sincere thanks to our friends who have been so wonderfully nice to us during my illness and convalescence. For the many beautiful flowers, cards and gifts we say a special thank you. Our highest regards to Dr. J. L. Hopsen and the Murray Hospital Staff. To those who extended a helping hand in any way. May God bless you all. Mrs. Kirby Hesford

AGREE ON PURSE
YONKERS, N. Y. (AP) - Yonkers Raceway, the nation's largest harness racing track in both attendance and pari-mutuel handle, hoped today for quick agreement on a new purse formula with the Standardbred Owners Association. Many owners individually boycotted the track for three weeks last summer when the track refused to increase purse money.

Tax Law May Be Revised
LOUISVILLE (AP) - The Kentucky Chamber of Commerce announced Wednesday it plans to seek revision of Kentucky's corporate income tax law by the 1958 General Assembly. J. C. Zimmerman, director of industrial development for the chamber, said the apparent higher corporate tax rate in Kentucky is scaring new industries away from the state. He said that while the corporation tax rate appears to be seven per cent it actually is only 3.36 to 3.5 per cent after federal taxes are deducted by corporations. Many states competing with Kentucky in attracting new industry do not allow deduction of federal taxes. Zimmerman said that it was difficult to explain to small industries seeking locations in Kentucky that the effective corporate tax rate is no higher than in other states. Zimmerman proposed that the corporation tax rate should be set at 3.5 per cent.

MRS. ELEANOR ROOSEVELT ENDORSES AMAZING NEW HEARING INVENTION
Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt has now joined other prominent Americans and people from all walks of life in praising a revolutionary new hearing device called "The Listener." It is certainly heralding a new day for the hard of hearing. Mrs. Roosevelt recently said: "If people only knew what a revelation and a joy 'The Listener' is, they would not for a moment hesitate to wear one. This is the first hearing aid that exactly fits my needs. I didn't realize a hearing aid could be as good as this."

DESPERATE MAN

BLUE RODE up the slope toward the cabin, his eyes on the man he had seen in the park. His right arm hung at his side. I stood in the doorway, thinking that I could shoot him out of his saddle without running any chance of getting shot. But I didn't try. I guess he knew I wouldn't.

As Blue walked toward me, I backed up. By the time he reached the doorway, I was standing against the opposite wall of the cabin. He stopped, a little bandy-legged man, his left hand close to the butt of his gun.

"I'm going to kill you, Munro," Blue said. "I guess you know that."

I hoped he would make his play then, because the interior of the cabin was dark compared to the bright sunlight he had been used to, and he might have trouble seeing me. I wanted to start the ball myself, but I had never drawn a gun against a man when I was facing him, and I couldn't quite bring myself to do it now.

Blue seemed to be in no hurry. He stood motionless, staring at me, maybe waiting for his eyes to become accustomed to the thin light. Or perhaps this was his way, enjoying the cat-and-mouse game he had played with my father last fall in the lobby of the hotel in Buhl.

I had quite a ride, he said finally. "I was in town, or I'd have been here sooner. Price right to get me." He lifted his right arm a few inches and dropped it back to his side. "You didn't think I'd forget you did this to me, did you?"

I didn't answer. Right from the moment I'd shot him in Buhl, I'd known I'd have to face him again. Suddenly frantic desire to live returned through my consciousness and I thought of Kitty and what it would mean to her if I died this way.

"You're scared, sonny," Blue said. "You're scared right down to your guts. You can't move and you can't talk."

I had been scared; then suddenly I wasn't. I wouldn't beg and I wouldn't crawl. I had forgotten for a moment, but now I remembered that he had sent the saddle tramp Jones to Dillon's Park. "I can talk," I said. "You're no gun fighter. You're a businesswacker. You murdered my father."

He was surprised at that. But I didn't kill Joe," he said. "Then who did?"

"Barney Lux," Blue said, and grinned. "And he killed Elder Smith too. Surprised?"

I was surprised, all right, but I tried not to show it. "Five hundred dollars for each job," Blue said, "but that's his way, not mine. I work for Runyan. Barney worked for Toll."

He couldn't stand it any longer. I suppose he'd been using up time so that fear would work on me, and he thought he had waited long enough. He made his play with his left hand and I made mine.

I never made a smoother, faster draw, maybe because I knew I had to, and of course I had the advantage of the short barrel. I was way ahead of Blue. He didn't get off a shot. My first bullet caught him in the left shoulder and knocked him back out of the doorway as cleanly as if he had been jerked off his feet by an invisible wire. I fired again as he fell, the bullet angling through his chest.

I ran out of the cabin and stood over him. His eyes were open, and blood was bubbling out of his mouth and running down his chin. "I practiced but not enough," he said.

He spoke slowly, whispering the words, for that was all the strength he had. Then he was dead, his mouth dropping open, his hands going slack in the dust at his sides. I leaned against the cabin wall for a time, my knees weak, blood pounding through my body. All the practicing he'd done with his left hand had not been enough. Maybe he'd thought he was ready. Or maybe he knew when Dick Price told him where I was.

I dropped my gun back into holster and dragged Blue's body inside the cabin. Somebody would come after him when he didn't show up at the Rafter 3. I jerked the bridle off his horse and gave him a slap. I got my Winchester from the cabin and shut the door, then sat up and started for the park. I'd tell Bess, and then I'd take care of Barney Lux.

By the time I reached the park, the sun had been down by two hours and the moon was up. I decided the best help I could get for the job ahead was Frank Dance.

When I got to his place, Frank was in bed asleep, but in no time at all he and Kip had saddled up and were riding with me to Bess' house.

We rode most of the way up the lane to Bess' house, then we stopped. We could see a light in the house, but not in the bunkhouse. I said, "Bess is up, but chances are Lux is asleep. How about waiting in and letting Kip hold the horses here?"

I had a look at Frank's big square face, but I couldn't tell much in the moonlight. "All right," he said. "I'll wait here. I'll catch him asleep."

I dismounted and walked to the house, moving quietly and saying nothing. I knocked on the front door. Frank standing a step behind me. When the door opened, Bess saw who it was and, turning, said, "Oh, Dave's back."

I wished he was ten miles from there. Now we were stuck with him. He got up from his chair and walked to the door. He was nervous and red in the face. I thought at first he was afraid I intended to tie him again, but it wasn't that.

"I'm apologizing for what I said last Sunday," he held out his hand. "I'm sorry. You done right to take a poke at me."

I took his hand, so surprised that I found it hard to believe this was actually happening. He had never apologized to anyone as far as I knew, but to apologize to me of all people was something that came under the heading of a miracle.

"It's all right, Gil," I said. "Forget it."

"You'll come home?" "It's up to me."

I wasn't going to waste time making up with Gil. First I had to tell Bess about Barney Lux; then Frank and I were going to root him out of the bunkhouse.

Barney Lux is caught and tried. How does a killer react when the tables are turned? Don't miss the answer in tomorrow's installment of "Desperate Man."

The Racers hold the edge over the Aces in past games, having won six while dropping three. The only mutual foe the two teams have met this year is powerful Louisville. The Aces lost 33-7, while Cullinan's crew was walloped 35-0.

TV CAUSES ACCIDENT

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—A Western television show got 15-year old Paul Houck "so excited" Thursday night he wounded his 12-year old brother Tommy with a pistol. Paul told police he took the gun from a drawer to investigate a noise and stopped to watch the show before putting it away. He said the program "got me so excited" he pulled the trigger. Tommy was hospitalized with a stomach wound.

KIRKSEY ROUTE 2 NEWS

Mrs. Harry Lee Potts and children have been sick with flu but are improving.

Mrs. Louise McGee of Michigan visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. V. Fareless a short time ago.

George Carnell burned off his garden a few days ago and his car house caught fire with his car inside. However the fire was extinguished before much damage was done.

Red Hart and family of Wingo visited his Aunt Cora, Carnell and Mr. Carnell a few days ago.

There is lots of sickness and flu. Surely hope that it does not get as bad as it did in 1918 during World War I, about 39 years ago.

Mr. and Mrs. James Dowdy has moved to the John Perry farm.

Halloween party at Kirksey was a success and all that attended reported a nice time.

Lazy Daisy has been sick the last four weeks and under the care of the doctor and nurse, is scarce. Callers to see her lately were Mr. and Mrs. Barney Darnell, Mr. and Mrs. Al Fareless, Essie Jones, Darcee Warren and John Perry.

James Shelton has bought a house and lot on the Hazel Highway near Jesse Johnson's Grocery Store.

Character is the foundation of all worth while success.
